Without our customers we would not exist and without our team of dedicated staff we would not be able to service our customer's needs. We value our staff and invest in training to provide excellence in service and implement changes to ensure improvements are a continuous process both for the staff and the company.

In the telecommunications industry, service issues can be experienced on occasion; this can have an impact upon businesses and has the potential to cause disruptions. We understand the importance of rectifying any issues, and our highly knowledgeable technical support teams are on hand to assist you to get back up and running as quickly, successfully and efficiently as possible.

If a third party causes the issue, Loop will work with them on your behalf to provide the swiftest possible resolution and will follow all available escalation paths whenever necessary. We take our customers faults on board and Loop will personally endeavour to rectify any situations on your behalf at the earliest convenience.

We appreciate our customers feedback, and Loop Voice and Data will continue to listen and make changes as necessary.

Thank you for your continued support and business.
